"... strong in will . . . and not to yield."

"... as a heterogeneous group."

FOREWORD

These past four years have given us, the Class of 1963, many warm memories and invaluable lessons. Athletics and scholastic work have stimulated our physical and mental growth. Emotionally too, we have grown, for as a heterogeneous group we have developed social understanding and tolerance. It is the goal of this Portal to serve as a reminder of the many experiences of these formative years.

Weaver has provided us with the essentials for a successful and meaningful future. We are well-educated, ambitious, and idealistic. Weaver has fulfilled her obligation, and now we must form our lives so that our ideals become realities. We of the Portal Board desire to portray some of the spirit of Weaver and of the Class of 1963 which has made us, hopefully, "strong in will to strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield."

G. S. B.

DEDICATION

To express our admiration and gratitude, we the Class of 1963 dedicate our PORTAL to Mrs. Eleanor O'Dwyer, Mr. Samuel Bronstein, and Mr. Joe R. Gordon for their sincere devotion to Weaver and to its students. With faculty members such as these, Weaver High will maintain the quality of excellence of which we are all so proud.

MR. SAMUEL BRONSTEIN

To the amazement of all his students, this warm-hearted math instructor expertly performs miraculous feats with all types of mathematical notation. We will always remember Mr. Bronstein's informal, yet highly enlightening classes. Always calm and patient, he is ever ready to help pupils with any of their troubles—scholastic or personal. An instructor to some, a friend to all, this man has combined the qualities of an intelligent, devoted teacher and a kind, good-natured person to win a place in the heart of every Weaverite.

MRS. ELEANOR O'DWYER

Her unselfish desire to help has won Mrs. O'Dwyer the respect and admiration of all. Sincere and warm-hearted, she has been surnamed the "Mother" of Weaver. This teacher combines the qualities of sympathy, kindness, gaiety, and erudition to make her English classes rewarding experiences. To Mrs. O'Dwyer we extend our gratitude for being both an understanding person and an excellent teacher.

MR. JOE R. GORDON

Although he is extremely busy as head of the Guidance Department and as one of the counselors, Mr. Gordon always finds the time to help any student with his problems. In addition to his guidance work, he advises and encourages the affairs and activities of the Honor Society. In every area, we have found Mr. Gordon an invaluable asset to the Weaver faculty. His patience, understanding, and untiring willingness to help, as well as his cheerful and pleasant personality, have made this man a valued friend of both the students and the faculty.

WEAVER

*The sad time has come when our Weaver journey is ended.
(Where has the time flown, you ask?)
For indeed the years have passed quickly.
But even time cannot claim what Weaver has given us.
Within our school's friendly walls have we grown and matured.
Untold hours of satisfaction and joy have come our way.
Here have we known adventures which forever enrich our lives.
And many are the friendships we have formed.
The corridors and classrooms hold unforgettable memories.
This stately building have we grown to love.
So when we, the class of '63, pass at last from Weaver's portals,
Say not in parting good-bye, but thank you.*

A. M. C.

MR. EZRA MELROSE

Since assuming the duties of principal upon Mr. Aitken's retirement, Mr. Melrose has proved himself a dedicated leader for Weaver High School. He has been faced with the impressive responsibilities of the office so well filled by his predecessor, and he has succeeded in gaining the respect of every Weaverite.

Mr. Melrose's door is always open to anyone, for he remains close to the student body despite the burden of his administrative duties. For this reason, his relationship with his students is a very personal and meaningful one. As principal, Mr. Melrose heads the Weaver community at work, and he is also the Beavers' greatest rooter. He has always cheered his team on, and has been a strong advocate of high school athletics.

Through his dedicated service to Weaver High School and to the entire community, Mr. Melrose has earned the respect of all who know him, especially the Class of 1963.

STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS

MR. NICHOLAS C. CORACCI

For many years Mr. Coracci has been a teacher of commercial subjects, the adviser of the Athletic Association, and the "boss" of the schedule room. This past year he was appointed vice-principal. Nevertheless, Mr. Coracci keeps "in touch" with the goings-on at Weaver and remains a loyal Weaverite, faithfully attending the games and cheering the various Weaver teams on to victory.

Mr. Coracci is not only an able teacher and vice-principal but also an accredited "actor." Every year he "acts" in the drama Santa Claus. This entertaining performance is an annual private showing for the Girls' Business Club.

Every morning the faculty and student body are greeted with a pleasant "Good Morning" over the P. A. system. The notices, as well as the thought for the day, are announced by the "The Voice of Weaver."

Mr. Coracci's sincerity, friendliness, and loyalty to the students of Weaver will never be forgotten. We, the class of 1963, passing through the halls as students for the last time, wish to express our appreciation to Mr. Coracci for all the unselfish work he has done for us.

MISS ANITA K. ROCHE

Miss Roche, our Dean of Girls, plays an important part in the daily activities of Weaver High School. Spending most of her time solving the many and varied problems of the school, she has won the admiration and respect of all who work with her. As faculty adviser to the Student Council, Miss Roche is ready to assist in any way possible. Her job includes not only advising the Student Council but also lending a helping hand with all the social functions of Weaver. A dance, a pep rally, or an assembly—Miss Roche probably has something to do with it. She graciously offered suggestions and encouragement for many projects. The Class of '63 extends gratitude to the Dean of Girls, Miss Anita K. Roche.

SPORTS

Beset by key injuries and hampered by inexperience, the 1962 Weaver football squad staged a brilliant comeback to finish the season with a 4-4-1 record. The Beavers were literally without an offense for the opening three contests, and despite a truly outstanding defense, they failed to score in two of the three games. At New London, the team finally jelled as it took a 22-6 victory. This win was followed by a 54-22 walloping of Pulaski and an 8-0 whitewashing of Norwich before Fitch was able to tie the Beavers. The high point of the season came as Weaver, under new headcoach Ted Knurek, easily defeated city rival Bulkeley, 28-6. The year was destined to end in disappointment, however, as Hartford High came from behind to hand the Beavers a heart-breaking 16-12 loss on Thanksgiving Day.

This was a team to be proud of as Weaver led the C. D. C. in defense. Co-captains David Marder and Richard Odoms were elected to the All- C. D. C. squad for their tough line play while Leonard Putzer received an honorable-mention. A steadily improving offense and the vaunted defense gave the Beavers a successful season.

BASKETBALL

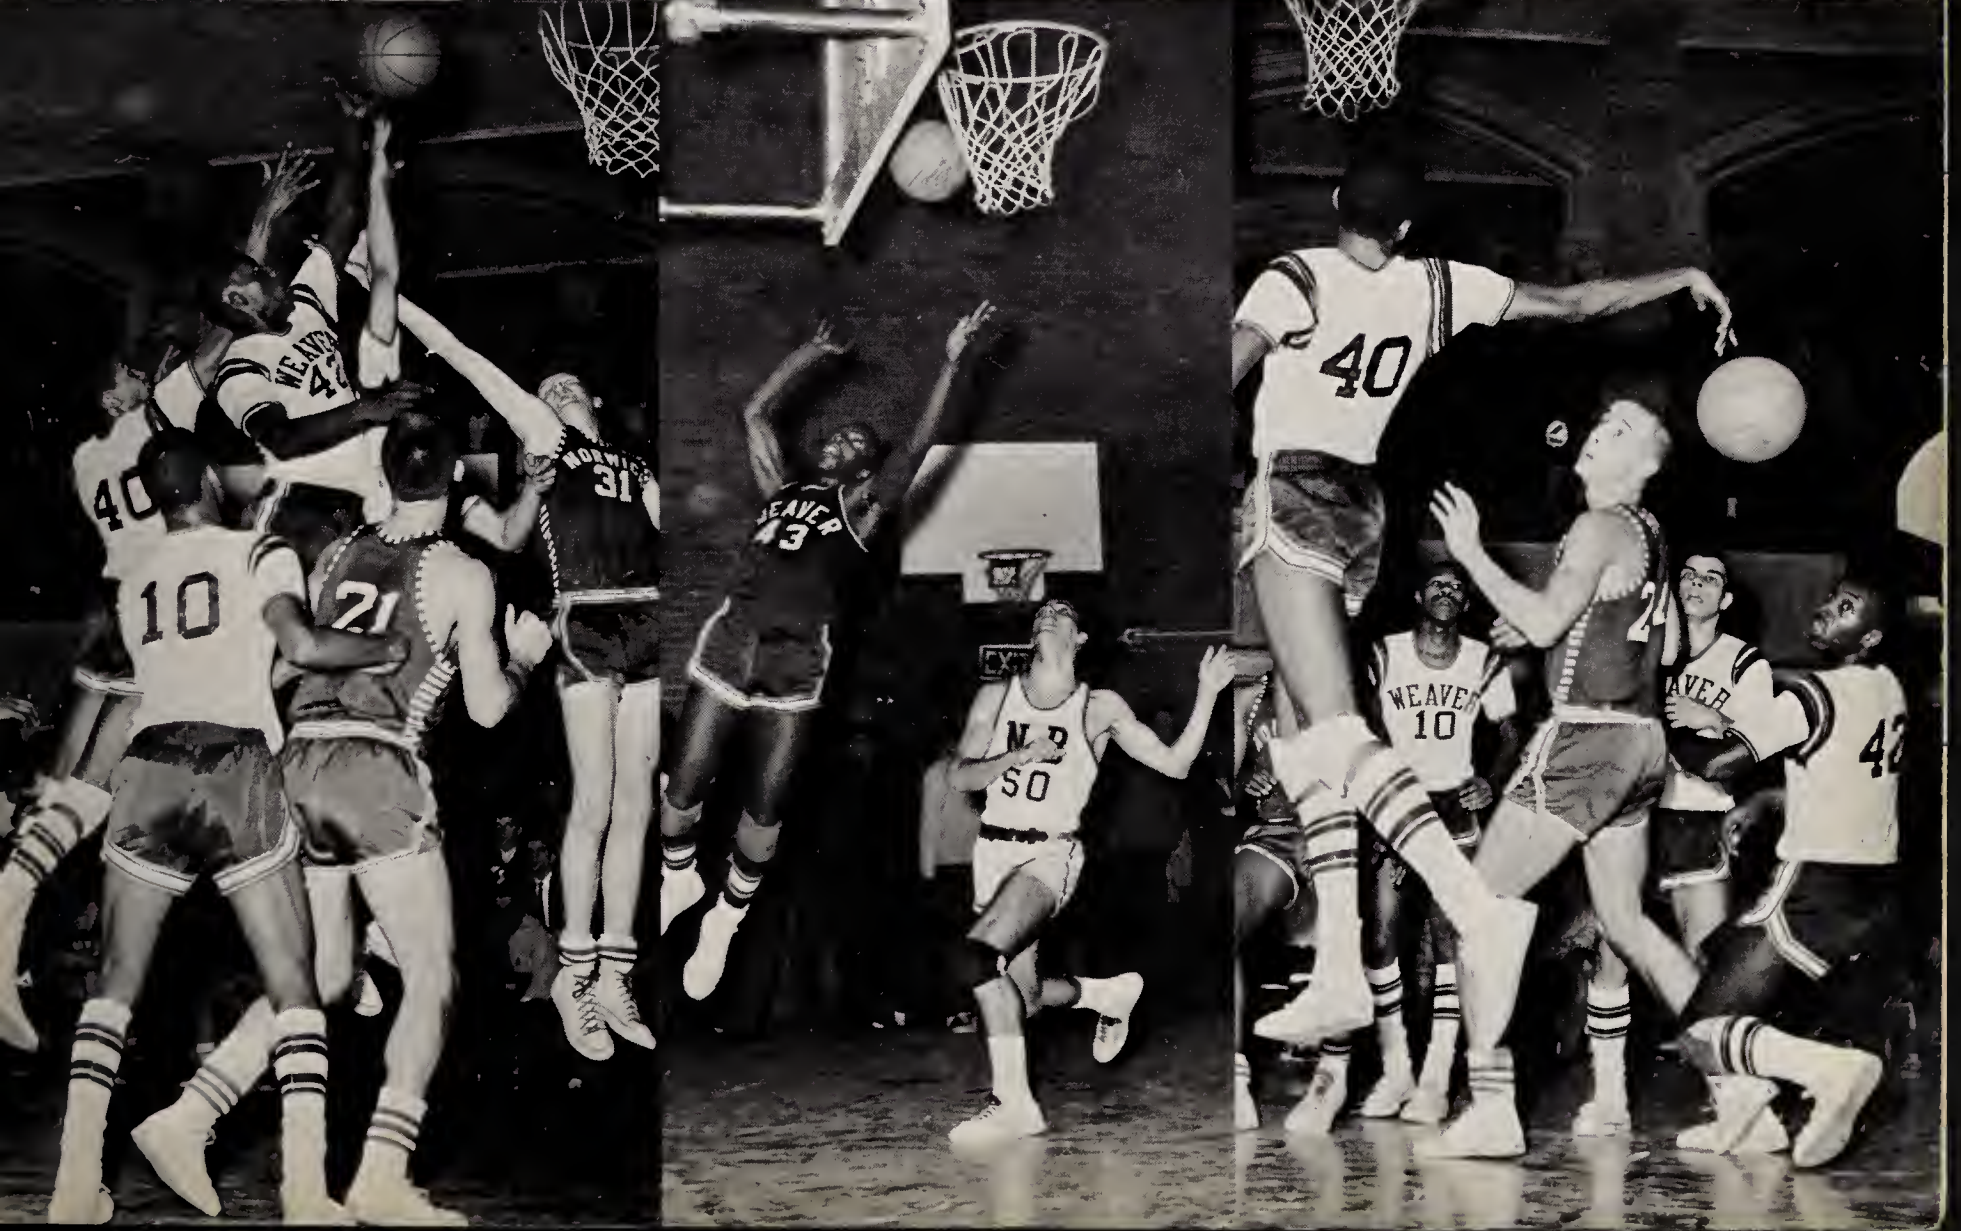

Combining a tenacious defense with a scintillating fast-break offense, the '62-'63 Weaver five rolled to an impressive 16-5 record including tournament play. The Beavers were not expected to do much this year, but through a fine team effort, this idea was soon changed.

After the Green and White opened with a 68-48 win over Fitch, non-C.D.C. foe Notre Dame handed Weaver its first loss by a 79-72 score. Then, gaining momentum, the Beavers swept to four straight victories, climaxed by a 67-47 thrashing of C.D.C. and city rival Bulkeley. Not so fortunate were the Scelzamen in their next outing, however, as East Hartford handed them what was to be their only C.D.C. loss, 57-55. It was in that contest that Wade Timmons hit the game high for Weaver scorers this year as he poured through a whopping 31 points. Bouncing back in their next contest, the Beavers whipped Norwich, but closed out the first half of the season with a disappointing 51-48 loss to then undefeated Wilbur Cross.

During the second half of the season, Weaver added eight more victories, dropping only another heartbreaker to powerful Hillhouse by 55-48 in overtime. Included in the eight victories were a 50-47 decision over Bulkeley and wins of 60-46 and 51-46 over H.P.H.S. to give the Green and White a perfect 4-0 city series record. In the final game of the season, Weaver walloped New London by 76-48 to clinch the C.D.C. title with a 13-1 mark and finish the regular slate with a 14-4 record.

In the state tourney, the Beavers whacked Rippowan 58-38 and East Hartford 70-42, before losing to eventual state champs Hillhouse, 56-50, in the quarterfinals when a brilliant second-half comeback fell short.

All five Weaver starters played a part in the team's success. Co-captain Gene Nelson, with his unforgettable hook shot was high scorer on many occasions, but each starter was high at least once during the campaign. Wade Timmons was a brilliant playmaker and scorer, while little Marty Hall was the outstanding defenseman on a team which allowed opponents over 50 points only six times. Ben Billie excelled as a rebounder and scorer, and Maurice Williams was front-man in the Weaver fast-break. Weaver has had another successful year thanks to the fine jobs done by the entire team and the able coaching staff.

CROSS-COUNTRY

The Harriers, under Coach Wilson, managed to finish the season with a mediocre 4-6 won-lost record in dual competition, a sixth place finish in the Greater Hartford meet, and thirteenth place in the state meet. With every member of this year's squad returning next fall, the Wilsonmen can look forward to an impressive season in 1963.

On September 8, 1959 our days in Weaver began. We came from surrounding streets, and we could almost say that all roads led to Weaver. After coming out of smaller schools such as Jones, Mark Twain, Northeast, and Barbour, we couldn't believe our eyes when we encountered our first high school. Along with the class of '63 entered two of our favorite teachers, Mrs. Mitnick and Mrs. O'Dwyer.

After our orientation assembly, we realized that life at Weaver wasn't to be all football games and dances. We soon became adjusted to hurried lunches, jangling bells, those piles of books we found necessary to carry, and going up "down" stairways.

After obtaining our A. A. tickets, we enjoyed going to the football games. Those who joined the band found it was enjoyable until they were faced with those early morning rehearsals for the half-time shows. With the band providing the music and the cheerleaders the noise, we watched our team go through a rainy fall season and an excellent 7-2 record. Who will ever forget that thrilling Thanksgiving Day victory Over HPHS 22-0?

Our first marking period ended and Manny Friedman got 4 A's. This surely wasn't the last time Manny would get all A's!

The first big dance attended by many freshmen was the Girls' League Goodwill Formal, "Snowflake Fantasy." Excitement followed in the winter months as we were called out of class by several bomb scares. One memorable day came when, as soon as we started filing back into the building after a "scare", a fire broke out in the elevator shaft. Luckily the fire department was still around, and there was no damage or injury.

The Girls' League held a fashion show the next month, and we were proud to see several of our classmates included. Those modeling were Cheryl Hallock, Cynthia Lang, Pana Moshovos, Fern Lessinger, and Michele Sherman.

Even though we had taken aptitude tests at the beginning of the year, we were included in the government-sponsored "Project Talent." If we had any "talent", we hoped the government would find it for us!

In the middle days of the school year, madras was the "thing" to wear, and Shelly Berman seemed to be the "man" to hear. Also, it was said that Ike, during his last year in office, went to Europe "to give Elvis a fruit cake."

The '59-'60 basketball season came and went. We witnessed many exciting games, and it ended in a heart-breaking loss to Wilbur Cross of New Haven in a game played at 12 o'clock at night due to a terrible snowstorm.

We soon witnessed our first Weaver nite, "Hawaiiana." This production was enjoyable and successful, and we knew that the Weaver Nites in which we would participate would be "a little bit better."

The band planned an exchange concert and a stay in Stratford for a weekend in June . . . and what a stay they had! The orchestra also planned concerts, this time in Boston where those who went had an exciting visit in the big city of the Celtics and the Red Sox.

During our first year, we witnessed many changes in the school. First, the number of marking periods had changed from six to four and warning notices were to be issued to those students in danger of failing. The next innovation was the Language Laboratory. The lab was an exciting and educational adventure for the students struggling in French and Spanish, and it also aided teachers as well as pupils.

With spring fever in the air, many of us went to Stratford to see a Shakespearean play. We were lucky enough to have our own play, "Lute Song", produced by the Dramatic Club. Freshmen participating were Jon Cooper, Manny Friedman, Shirley Schreiber, and Jo Anne Archambault. In sports, Phil Rose was chosen for the tennis team and Lon Gagnon for the baseball team. Lonny proved a successful hurler in several varsity appearances, and we knew he was destined to be a great pitcher for the Green and White.

After the awards assembly, where Manny Friedman got the prize as highest ranking freshman and Gary Berman copped the Algebra Prize, we made plans for the coming summer vacation. We realized that our first year at Beavertown would never be forgotten. We had started off on the right foot, and we looked forward to three more good years at Weaver.

SOPHOMORE YEAR

In September 1960, sophomores at last, we returned confidently to Weaver at 8:15 A.M., fifteen minutes earlier than in previous years. The newly inaugurated rotating schedules had everyone in a state of total confusion, with a few scattered bomb scares adding to the turmoil! Miss Drescher retired after thirty-four years of service. Weaver welcomed Mrs. Fribush, Mr. Spring, and Miss MacDonnell to the faculty. Language students were instructed in the use of the recently installed language laboratory, biology students were introduced to the art of "bug" collecting, and the "Spare the Silverware Campaign" went into full swing. We were certainly off to a fine, but confusing start!

To represent us on the Student Council, we elected Gary Berman as president of our class, Jill Lautner as secretary, and Robert Wolff as treasurer. We were later saddened by the unfortunate death of Bob, who died in January.

To support our football team, which included sophomores Dave Marder, Gary Ware, Tony DeFronzo and Lenny Putzer, a rally was held after school the day before our traditional Turkey Day game against Hartford High. On Thanksgiving Day our team fought hard, but lost the game 26-14, giving Weaver a record of 6-3 for the year. Senior Amado Cruz, co-captain of the team, was seriously injured in the game, but fortunately recovered after a long stay in Saint Francis Hospital.

John Fitzgerald Kennedy entered the White House in January, 1961 as the thirty-fifth President of the United States. His wife, "Jackie", an active and very popular First Lady, set the fashion trend with shorter skirts and bouffant hair styles.

In the first year of the new administration, the United States successfully put its first manned capsule into space. Astronaut Alan B. Shepard, Jr. was blasted off on a sub-orbital flight before re-entering the earth's atmosphere and being retrieved in the Atlantic Ocean, only a short distance from the anticipated landing spot!

Our basketball team finished the season with a 13-5 record. As the sixth-rated team in the "A" division, we competed for the State Championship at the New Haven Arena, winning against both Bristol Eastern and Hillhouse before being defeated by Hartford High, which later won the the New England Championship.

A portrait of Mr. Aitken, the principal of Weaver, was revealed to the student body at the annual Girls' League Assembly. This painting, in honor of Mr. Aitken's many years of service to the school, was paid for by generous contributions from teachers and clubs at Weaver, and by a basketball game played on behalf of the fund.

A variety of social events filled that year, both in school and out. The school-sponsored "Football Hop" was such a success that it was followed later by an equally enjoyable "Sports Dance." The annual Girls' League Goodwill Formal, entitled "Winter Nocturne" was really terrific with wonderful memories for the many couples attending the affair. We were all very disappointed to hear that there would be no "Weaver Nite" that year, and resolved not to let this gala event be omitted again. "Sweet Sixteen" parties were scattered throughout the year, and, upon reaching that magical age, a lucky few received their drivers' licenses. Many applied for part-time jobs.

A group of men from the State Board of Education came to evaluate Weaver. The evaluators stayed at Weaver for a week, visited classrooms and club meetings, asked questions, and caused day-dreaming students to wake up with a start!

The Junior Issue of the LOOKOUT was eagerly anticipated by many, especially those competing for positions on the next year's editorial board. Jonathan Cooper, Manny Friedman, Patti Sobel, Thomas Hennessey, and Janet Kannofo took over various editorial positions for the issue, and did a fine job.

There were many awards for our year of hard work, in addition to the grades on our report cards. Susan Ritvo, Manny Friedman, Sheila Cooper, and Patti Sobel received Honorable Mentions in the Scholastic Writing Competition sponsored by the Hartford Courant. Manny also tied for second place in the National French Competition. At an assembly held on the last day of school, Manny Friedman received an award for having the highest average for the sophomore year, and Gary Berman came in close behind in second place. We filed out of the auditorium, happily looking forward to a peaceful summer, and to next September when we would be returning to Weaver as full-fledged upperclassmen.

JUNIOR YEAR

With "twisted" spines and sunburnt noses as lingering remembrances of the leisure summer days, we entered the halls of Weaver as upperclassmen. Upperclassmen! At last we could attend those "A" assemblies. How small the freshmen looked!

There were many changes when we returned: new schedule forms printed by the IBM system, the P. A. system, with the notices and "thought for the day" read by the "voice in the box," and the quality point marking system.

Synonymous with September is football, and this year was no exception. At the Jamboree, Weaver "played to win," but the final score was HPHS-Bulkeley 36 and Weaver-EHHS 28. But, this, by no means, dampened the spirits of our "mighty eleven." They played "all the way," right down to the Thanksgiving Day game. Weaver then trounced HPHS with a score of 58-6! This was Weaver's first city championship in four years! Thus, our team remained the only undefeated class "A" team in the state.

Junior City Council elections were held. The chosen representatives included two juniors—Gary S. Berman and Thomas Hennessey. Gary was later elected Mayor. Thus, for the second straight year, a Weaverite served as Mayor.

Weaver had a great Cross-Country team in 1962. The team enjoyed its first Greater Hartford win since 1953!

Weaver's Band and Orchestra also received honors. At the annual Music Festival in the Spring the members won performance medals. The juniors included Donald Christensen, Esther Hoffman, Beverly Seger, and Debbie Wise.

As for the "goings-on" at Weaver: lockers were installed; Mrs. Garber took Miss Fleming's place as school nurse; Silverware Week began Monday, January 9 and was highlighted by "A" and "B" assemblies; three Lookout editors participated in the Annual Newspaper Forum, including Juniors Claire Segal and Thomas Hennessey, Headline Editors; Miss Conklin returned after a year of recovery from serious injuries after a fall; Mr. Katz received a study grant at Brown University; as part of the Teacher Exchange Program, Mr. Rosero of Equador visited Weaver; and Manny Friedman became recipient of the Wish Award.

It was sad news for all Weaverites when Mr. Aitken announced his plans for retirement after fourteen years of service to Weaver. Mr. Aitken made Brotherhood Week the theme of his final message to the student body. Mr. Melrose and Mr. Coracci were chosen as principal and vice-principal, respectively.

The "national and international scene" was also sad. A Bay of Pigs invasion in Cuba was a complete failure!

But Weaverites did not let this sad state of affairs penetrate their school spirit. In the American Legion Oratorical Contest, February 8, Philip Rose, Patti Sobel, and Sheila Cooper won first, second, and third place respectively!

Weaver Nite was a tremendous success. The entertainment included Weaver Emmy Awards for 1962 and of course the twenty-five Dancing Dolls performed magnificently.

Hartford also "performed magnificently" in the All-American City contest. Our capital city was among eleven cities chosen on March 14, 1962 as an All-American City.

Things were "go-go-go" for our Space Program, too. John Glenn became the first American Astronaut to complete three trips around the earth and make a safe return in the Atlantic!

At Weaver, the Junior Prom was held and pronounced a big success! The radiant Cheryl Hallock reigned as Queen of "Evening in Paradise," March 12. Her Court included Ricky Berson, Cynthia Lang, Susan Lappen, Pana Moshovos, Lynette Nappier, and Michele Sherman.

Junior Ushers were chosen for class night, the Senior Reception, and graduation. They were Gary Berman, Donald Christensen, Alan Cohen, Jonathan Cooper, Norman Fidel, Manny Friedman, Richard Greenberg, Philip Harris, Thomas Hennessey, Elliot Hoffman, Stephen Krasner, Robert Kreger, Alan Meyerhoff, Philip Rose, Edward Rosenthal, David Sosland, Harry Sunenshine, and Norman Wald.

Miscellaneous events at Weaver included: sixteen juniors were admitted to the Honor Society, Patti Sobel was chosen by the Lookout Editors as Editor-in-Chief for the following year, Rachel Myerowitz was named head of the Review, and Miss Hood announced her retirement plans after thirty-eight years of teaching English in the high school system.

As for Weaver Sports, this year was a good one. The Cross-Country team ended with a 7-1 record, basketball had an 11-8 record, and the baseball team won the city series title for the second straight year. Weaverites had reason to be proud of their athletes!

With the third year of high school behind us, successful and memorable as it was, the Class of '63 looked forward to a long summer vacation and then the Big Year. At last we would be Seniors, the top men on the totem pole!

SENIOR YEAR

Well, there we were! We had at last achieved that golden status—we were seniors. Kings of the school and only a hundred and eighty days till graduation! It seemed so far away. This year Weaver welcomed seventeen new teachers, and Mr. Melrose and Mr. Corraci officially became our new principal and vice-principal, respectively. There were some other additions to the school in the form of new lockers and the new curtains on the auditorium stage.

We elected our officers for the year. Ed Rosenthal was student Council President, Manny Friedman, Class President; and Betty Clay and Rocco Mascaro, Treasurers. Also, Alan Cohen was elected president of the Honor Society and Tom Hennessey head of the F.P.A. In the usual splendor of the J.C.C. campaigns, we found our classmates Art Kelly, Dick Odoms, Ray Blanks, and Tom Hennessey were the top vote-getters.

Early in the year many of the boys began preparing for the draft when the Cuban crisis was the highpoint of the news. The tension lifted with Russia's agreement to remove her missiles, and we all relaxed again.

With Dave Marder and Dick Odoms leading our football team, we finished the season with a satisfying 4-4-1 record. There were many exciting moments in the fall of '62; who will ever forget that Thanksgiving Day game played on a Saturday? (We lost in a heartbreaker, 16-14.)

As the year passed by, many awards were presented to our classmates. Among these, Patti Sobel received the D.A.R. citizenship award; Gary Berman, Phil Rose, Jon Cooper, and Phil Harris were named Merit Finalists; Manny Friedman captured the Silverman Book Prize; and Gary Berman was named recipient of the Bausch and Lomb Science Award.

The winter months were upon us, and (un) fortunately we didn't miss one day of school because of snowstorms, although it was a cold season. This was also the hectic time of preparing college applications. We finally completed them before the deadline and waited nervously for notification. Tension mounted and so did our hopes. In the end, all turned out well.

The 1962-'63 basketball team proved to be one of the most outstanding Green and White quintets of recent years. With Gene Nelson as Captain, and the whole squad giving a 100% effort every game, the Scelzamen finished with a sparkling 16-5 record as we captured both the city and Capital District Conference crowns.

Saturday March 16 was a night of enjoyment as we spent "A Day At The White House." Weaver Night this year presented the best of WHS talent, using comical take-offs on the president as the theme. Gary Berman, Barry Lutin, and junior Joanne Sockut shared the M.C. duties. The show added to the many fine memories of our "Alma Mater."

The Portal finally went to press!

As June drew near, our senior activities increased. The banquet, Class Night, and the reception took up much of our time and energy. At last that magic night arrived, and we graduated with much regret at leaving Weaver, but with optimism toward the future.

We realized we would miss the school in which we had passed our high school years. There were many things which would live in our memories for years to come. We would never forget 227 and 240 study halls; rushing to be first in the lunch line; "one straw to a customer"; the "thought for the day"; our principals, Mr. Aitken and Mr. Melrose; the many exciting football and basketball games; the many assemblies and rallies; our beloved teachers; and finally, that "Senior Year."
